DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 36-45, drawn to transmitting signals over telephone lines, classified in class 379, subclass 93.08.
 - II. Claims 46-48, drawn to transmitting video signals from a local server, classified in class 725, subclass 82.

During a telephone conversation with Mr. Dan Swirsky on 3/31/04 a provisional election was made without traverse to prosecute the invention of group 2, claims 46-48. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claim 36-45 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The following title is suggested: System for providing Video to Subscribers in a Multiple Dwelling Unit.

3. Claim 48 is objected to because of the following informalities: claim 48, line 1 states, "according to claim 46 and also". The examiner interprets claim 48, line 1 to state, "according to claim 46 also". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 47 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 47, line 2 states “generally simultaneously”. The examiner respectfully requests the applicant to clarify the claim language.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 46, 48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fenwick, Jr et al (US 2003/020/4852 A1).

Regarding claim 46, Fenwick discloses the broadcast channels are customized for each facility to advertise the available features and any information a facility wishes to convey to the guests (page 4, paragraph [0031]). Fenwick discloses each guest room is supplied with a keyboard for use in a PC and a lodging facility (page 4, paragraph [0033-0035]), which meets the limitation more than one subscriber premises. Fenwick discloses the video distribution system for distributing video in a lodging facility (page 1, paragraph [0012]). Fenwick discloses the audiovisual serving devices 8 deliver program to the users (pages 1-2, paragraph [0014]). Fenwick discloses the programming subsystem may include numerous audiovisual serving devices (page 3, paragraph [0022]). Fenwick discloses each of the AV streams is transmitted to the user using a RF modulator assigned to that audiovisual serving device 8 and providing a television output signal on a selected RF frequency (pages 4-5, paragraph [0037]). Fenwick discloses the SMS 10 keeps track of currently available resources and allocates the tasks of providing program material to users among the various audiovisual serving devices (page 2, paragraphs [0018-0019]); each of the audiovisual devices interacting with the SMS 10 meets the limitation on a multiplicity of interface controllers. Fenwick discloses the LPS 18 is used to store and playback broadcast channels that are presented to the user when the system is activated in the user's rooms (page 4, paragraphs [0030-0031]), which meets the limitation on a multiplicity of interface controllers, each connectable to a subscriber converter (devices 8) serving one of the subscriber premises.

Fenwick discloses the system delivers to the users a variety of program material from a variety of sources that include scheduled programs, satellite and terrestrial broadcasts (page 1, paragraph [0013]). Fenwick discloses the LPS 18 is supplied program material to be delivered and loaded on the audiovisual serving devices outside the dates the facility is licensed to present it to users (pages 3-4, paragraph [0029]). Fenwick discloses the LPS is used to store and playback broadcast channels that are presented to the user when the system is activated in the user's rooms (page 4, paragraph [0031]), which meets the limitation on means for downloading video films or broadcast from a central office of a communication service provider through at least one of the subscriber converters and a storage unit for storing the downloaded video films or broadcast.

Fenwick discloses the LPS 18 begins transmitting the program to the user (page 4, paragraph [0030]). Fenwick discloses each of the AV streams is transmitted to the user using a RF modulator assigned to that audiovisual serving device 8 and providing a television output signal to the users on a selected RF frequency (pages 4-5, paragraph [0037]), which meets the limitation on means for transmitting a selected one of the downloaded films or broadcast to one of the subscriber premises through its associated subscriber converter.

Regarding claim 48, Fenwick discloses the program material may come from satellite and terrestrial broadcasts, magneto-optical jukebox video servers (page 1, paragraph [0013]; page 3, paragraph [0026]), which meets the limitation on at least one interface controller connectable to a data receiving system selected from the group consisting of satellite broadcast receiving system, cable TV receiver equipment, and terminal receiver device for an optical fiber.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 47 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fenwick (US 2003/0204852 A1).

Regarding claim 47, Fenwick discloses the system delivers to the users a variety of program material from a variety of sources that include scheduled programs, satellite and terrestrial broadcasts (page 1, paragraph [0013]). Fenwick discloses the LPS 18 is supplied program material to be delivered and loaded on the audiovisual serving devices outside the dates the facility is licensed to present it to users (pages 3-4, paragraph [0029]). Fenwick discloses the LPS 18 is used to store and playback broadcast channels that are presented to the user when the system is activated in the user's rooms (page 4, paragraphs [0030-0031]). Fenwick discloses the SMS tracks the currently available resources and the audiovisual device will no longer be available to other devices while in use (page 2, paragraphs [0018-0019]), which meets the limitation on selected subscriber converters are not in current use by the respective subscriber premises.

Fenwick is silent as to whether the downloading is occurring simultaneously through more than one selected subscriber converters. The examiner takes Official Notice that parallel recording is notoriously well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Fenwick to record more than one program simultaneously (parallel) in order to reduce the amount of time it takes to record the programs.
